Welcome to Rio Grande do Sul

The supporters that visit Rio Grande do Sul for the 2014 FIFA World Cup™ will discover a state resplendent with attractions that go beyond football. Tourism includes lush nature, historical and cultural wealth, offering a range of leisure options for visitors to enjoy.

A photograph showing the silhouettes of five cowboys on horseback, moving from left to right across a field. The scene is set against a bright, hazy sunset or sunrise, with long shadows cast on the ground. A fence and a bare tree are visible in the background.

Welcome to the 2014 FIFA World Cup™ in Rio Grande do Sul!

Rio Grande do Sul and the host city, Porto Alegre, are ready to for the largest sporting event on the planet: the 2014 FIFA World Cup™.

This state offers a combination of tradition and innovation, knowledge and cutting-edge technology, urban environments and lush nature, history and the future, diversity and plurality, culture and sport, work and leisure: it is a multicultural destination, with attractions for all types, noted as a reference in services and logistics solutions, roadways and urban infrastructure, quality of life and hospitality.

In the land of great celebrities, such as Luiz Felipe Scolari, Gisele Bündchen and Ronaldinho Gaúcho, make this the ideal place for you to enjoy amazing experiences, taking with you the very fondest memories!

The Gaúcho

It was on the grasslands of the Pampas that the historical and legendary figure of the Gaúcho arose. Attributed with virtues of bravery and a warring spirit, notable in the many battles, rebellions and wars throughout the history of this people, both in the defense of territory against Spanish interest, but also in the fight for the independence of the Riograndense Republic, at the start of the 19th century.

Chimarrão

A truly native beverage, the chimarrão is prepared with yerba-mate in a gourd and served with a type of straw usually produced in silver. It is one of the most traditional and unique cultural manifestations of the South of Brazil.

Culture

History, tradition and customs are kept alive in the daily routines of a people devoted to its land. Visiting the inspiring cities of Rio Grande do Sul means discovering a mosaic of people, beliefs and cultures. It means discovering a people that proudly reveal the achievements that unveil the past and present of this enchanting state. The frontiers and social and cultural convergences of this so-called "Gaúcho world", shared with the Gaúchos of Uruguay and Argentina, make Rio Grande do Sul a very different Brazil, and very special.

Tradition

Strongly influenced by European immigrants, Rio Grande do Sul is characterized by its history of ethnic diversity. It has traditions that are passed on from generation to generation, something immediately notable and which attracts the attention of visiting tourist. Nowadays, the popularity of barbecued meat, the "churrasco", and the yerba-mate infusion, "chimarrão", passed from hand to hand in a circle of friends chatting, are the traits of all Gaúchos. In the CTGs, or Gaúcho Tradition Centers, tourist can admire and even learn to produce utensil and clothing, or perhaps learn the steps to local folk dances.

Cuisine and Well-Being

The variety that makes up Gaúcho cuisines is the result of a fusion of cultures resulting from colonization. Typical dishes that blend these influences and explode with flavor. One must begin with the true and succulent churrasco, or barbecue, the flagship dish of the region, prepared with different cuts of meat and served abundantly in traditional barbecue restaurants, or churrascarias. For a legitimate local experience, the barbecue is something that simply cannot be missed. Another traditional roast is the galetto, a traditional Italian poultry dish, most commonly found in the Serra Gaúcha highland region. As a started, try the capeletti soup.

The sun-dried beef, or charque, rice dish is one that is a firm favorite in Rio Grande do Sul, and also appreciated in the countries other southern states.

To sweeten the palate, don't forget to try the state's most popular deserts, produced from eggs and milk and perfumed with cloves and cinnamon: ambrosia. Ambrosia goes best with sago other famous desert prepared with wine. The sweets from the city of Pelotas and the crumble cakes in areas colonized by German immigrants should also be on your checklist.

Wine is another important element in the state, and recognized as the leading production hub and home to the biggest concentration of vineyards in Brazil. The state is also home to a number of artisanal cachaça distilleries, the traditional sugarcane-based Brazilian spirit also popular in RS.

Climate

The climate of Rio Grande do Sul can best be described as a temperate in a tropical country. With four clearly defined seasons, locals experience high temperatures during summer (December, January and February), while winter sees temperature dropping below 10°C, with negative number not uncommon in the highland and Pampa regions.

The host city, Porto Alegre

Porto Alegre is the hub of the Gaúcho history's preservation and continuity, along with the folklore, habits and beliefs of this people. And this is achieved through a peculiar means, which values tradition without neglecting dynamism and the harmony maintained with the modernity of a truly cosmopolitan center.

Porto Alegre is synonymous with a Brazil apart, differing from the most recognized tropical destinations with sun and sea. It differs not only in terms of landscape, but because it makes a specialty of its culture. These differences are expressed in everything from music to poetry, literature to the fine arts, from architecture to the habits and lifestyles of its inhabitants.

Download the POA App - The host city's official application with the main information you need.

POA is the abbreviation for Porto Alegre.

Strategic Location

Porto Alegre is a strategic point in Mercosur, and the geographic center of the leading routes of the Southern Cone, equidistant to the axes of Buenos Aires/Argentina (1,063 km), Montevideo/Uruguay (890 km), São Paulo (1,109 km) and Rio de Janeiro (1,558 km). The city is linked to federal roadways that provide access to other Brazilian states, Uruguay and Argentina, countries that border the state of Rio Grande do Sul. The Salgado Filho International Airport, currently being expanded, is located just 15 minutes from the city center, catering to an average flow of 650,000 passengers per month.

A Passion for Football

The history of football in Porto Alegre is divided into two major passions, both centenary: Grêmio Foot-Ball Porto Alegrense, founded on September 15, 1903, and Sport Club Internacional, established on April 4, 1909. Over more than a century of rivalry and glory, both teams have conquered international titles and recognition for the city. Grêmio is world champion, twice Copa Libertadores da América champion, twice Brazilian champion, four-time champion of the Brazil Cup, champion of the South American Winners' Cup and a number of other international tournaments. Internacional is world champion, twice Copa Libertadores da América champion, Copa Sul-Americana champion, three-time Brazilian champion – one with an unbeaten record –, champion of the Brazil Cup and many other international tournament titles.

The passion for football in Porto Alegre is to such an extent that the city will most likely be the only Brazilian capital in 2014 with two stadiums that comply with FIFA standards. Besides modernizing the official stadium of the 2014 FIFA World Cup™, Gigante da Beira-Rio (Sport club Internacional), the Grêmio Arena (Grêmio Foot-Ball Porto Alegrense) was also built.

Route by Foot Through Historical Center

The route taken by foot can kick off in Centro Histórico (Historical Center), a region recently revitalized, and from where the city initially took route 242 years ago. It offers a tour through important and bustling cultural spaces, churches, manor houses and monuments. Eighty percent of the state's historical buildings are concentrated in the region, such as the Memorial of Rio Grande do Sul, the State Art Museum, with an attractive outdoor bistro restaurant, and the Santander Cultural Center, with a bar, restaurant, coffee shop and cinema. They all surround the historical Praça da Alfândega. Close by is the Mário Quintana Cultural Center, the building of which was declared a historical heritage site and pays tribute to important names in the Rio Grande do Sul cultural scene. Forming an outdoor museum, the Praça da Matriz is home to the Metropolitan Cathedral and Palácio Piratini (legislative buildings) – whose alfresco artworks are worth a visit –, the Solar dos Câmara manor house and the São Pedro Theater, the pride and joy of the Gaúcho people. Another icon of Centro Histórico is the neoclassic Central Public Market, dated 1869 and erected at the time of slavery. It is the epicenter of many tales and beliefs linked to the memory and imagination of the city.

Life “Outside”

Weekends, and especially Sundays, are usually dedicated to the popular street fair

Brique da Redenção, which takes place on Sundays along the full extension of Avenida José Bonifácio, next to Farroupilha Park, or Parque da Redenção, in Porto Alegre. The city comes alive in the park. Lovers of the outdoors, thousands of city residents enjoy the 40-hectare green area for outings, walking, jogging, meeting friends, sunbathing and drinking chimarrão. Areas such as Moinhos do Vento Park and Marinha do Brasil ate another two preferred spots to spend sunny days out in the open air.

Rural Tourism Nearby

Porto Alegre is the second largest Brazilian capital in terms of rural production areas, situated just a few minutes outside of the city. This region is home to the Caminhos Rurais, or Rural Route, a unique tourism option. Honey, floriculture, fishing, agroecology and its diversity, along with the raising of sheep and horse, spark interest in this region that is home to a range of tourism enterprise and equipment, with diverse and attractive features such as ecotourism, cultural tourism, rural tourism, as well as study and exchange opportunities, covering a range of themes.

Guaíba and the Enchanting Sunset

Guaíba Lake is the strongest geographical expression of Porto Alegre. The best way to enjoy the sights of the city and islands of the Jacuí Delta is by navigating its waters on board boats that offer touristic outings leaving from the Usina do Gasômetro wharf, Cais Mauá and Ipanema beach. The lakes forms a waterfront of 72 km, a large part of which is urbanized and used for leisure and recreational activities by the outdoor-loving population. The colors of the sunset over the waters of the Guaíba are a spectacle not to miss and certainly the city's most recognized postcard shot.

City Tour Tourism Line

For closer contact with the city, passing through the mandatory Centro Histórico and the stunning landscape of Zona Sul, there is nothing better than boarding one of the Tourism Line double-decker city tour buses. Four meters high, passengers are offered a panoramic view of the streets, squares, monuments, Lake Guaíba and many other attractions. The Centro Histórico route focus on historical, architectural and cultural attractions in the region where the city first took root. The route includes five points for boarding and getting off, allowing visitors to become familiar and try a number of venues and services in the neighborhoods along the way.

Art and Culture in the Host City

Whether theater, music or the fine and visual arts, there are many excellent local, national and international productions in this land of renowned authors, artists and celebrities. The bold concepts of award-winning Portuguese architect, Álvaro Siza Vieira, are clearly noted in the building of the Iberê Camargo Foundation (ICF), a museum that provides an incredible and up-close view of the waters of Guaíba Lake. Beside permanent exhibitions of Rio Grande do Sul native artist and sculptor, Iberê Camargo (1914 - 1994), the complex also hosts exhibitions by other important Brazilian and foreign artists.

Science, Technology and Innovation with Loads of Fun

A veritable theme park that stimulates the scientific curiosity and senses of children and adults alike. That is probably the best way to describe the Science and Technology Museum of the Pontifical Catholic University of Rio Grande do Sul (PUCRS), one of the most renowned in the country. There are three floors of pure interactivity with more than 800 scientific and technological experiments, spread throughout an area of 17,500 m². The museum is a reference in Latin America.

Great Nightlife in The Capital

Cultural events, bars, pubs, local breweries, cafés and nightclubs vie for nighttime patrons, offering different styles and rhythms.

For a more refined and glamorous night out, head to the chic Calçada da Fama, or Walk of Fame, in the neighborhood of Moinhos de Vento. It is Porto Alegre's answer to Soho. Sophisticated fashion stores, many bars, nightclubs, restaurants and centenary mansions set the tone for the pleasant, tree-lined streets. In the neighborhood of Cidade Baixa, the night out is a little more bohemian, with a concentration of manor houses featuring Portuguese architecture that have been restored and transformed into bars, restaurants and art studios. The evening options in Bom Fim, a traditionally Jewish neighborhood, are preferred by an alternative crowd. Zonal Sul is home to sailing clubs, the residential neighborhood of Ipanema, with its popular waterfront lined with bars and restaurants, offering a view of the Guaíba.

Creative Tourism

In Porto Alegre, visitors can enjoy new and unique experiences thanks to the traditions and diversity of the local culture, to the point of living the city to the same degree as its residents. This is what is offered in the short workshops and course available to tourists. Learn to prepare regional cuisine, such as an authentic Gaúcho barbecue and the traditional carreteiro rice dish; learn to prepare a chimarrão, the most popular beverage in Rio Grande do Sul; discover the steps to folklore dances to the sound of Brazilian and regional music; and exchange experiences about different painting techniques and urban art with local artists. These are just some of the activities that make up the Porto Alegre Creative Tourism program, available via the portal: www.portoalegrecriativa.info.

Foreign Currency Exchange

- The Brazilian currency is the real (R$ - plural reais)
- Notes: 100, 50, 20, 10, 5 and 2
- Coins: 1 real, 50, 25, 10 and 5 cents (centavos)
- Foreign currency or travelers checks can be changed at hotel reception desks, in banks or travel agencies

Banks

Opening hours: Monday to Friday – times vary depending on the city and business hours: Porto Alegre: From 10am to 4pm / Inland Areas from 10am to 3pm

Tipping

In Rio Grande do Sul it is not customary to tip. Most restaurants and bars include a 10% service fee in the bill, although at some establishments tipping is optional, as it is for bellboys at hotels. Taxi drivers do not expect to be tipped.

Electricity

The standard voltage in Porto Alegre is 110V; however, there are 220V power outlets available. In most nearby cities the standard voltage is 220V.

The standard plug has three pins, but check beforehand as there are still some places that use two-pin plugs.

Tip:

Download the Central bank's free app "Câmbio Legal" at the Apple Store or Google Play; it shows users the closest currency exchange locations. The program lists places where you can exchange money, as well as the location of nearby ATMs where you can withdraw local currency using international credit cards and foreign currency exchange terminals, where you can insert reais and withdraw dollars for example, and vice-versa. Millions of these sites across the country are registered with Câmbio Legal, available in Portuguese, English and Spanish

SAMU 192

SAMU – Mobile Emergency Care Service – an emergency healthcare service provided by the State Health Department for Rio Grande do Sul, in partnership with the Ministry of Health and Municipal Boards of Health.

SERVICE

By dialing 192 you have access to doctors and healthcare professionals center for the Regulation of Medical Emergencies, trained to give first aid information over the phone. These professionals will determine the type of care, ambulance and team needed for each case.

WHEN TO CALL SAMU

Cardiorespiratory problems, intoxication, serious burns, drowning, victims of abuse, high-risk labor for the mother or fetus, hypertensive crises, victims of accidents/traumas, suicide attempts, shock caused by electrocution, accidents with hazardous products.

VACCINATION

Make sure your vaccinations are up to date, particularly for measles and influenza.

A yellow fever vaccination is recommended 10 days before traveling.

INFLUENZA PREVENTION (FLU)

Rub alcohol gel on your hands whenever possible, wear suitable clothing for cold weather and/or rain and drink plenty of fluids.

USE CONDOMS

Use condoms for all sexual relations to protect against AIDS and other STDs.

SAFETY

Avoid areas at high risk of flooding or landslides. The sudden increase in water volume of rivers and waterfalls during rainy periods can cause serious accidents.

TRAVEL

Avoid staying in the same position for extended periods during long bus or plane trips. Move around. Stretch your legs and arms and walk as much as possible. For those traveling by car: be careful when overtaking, respect the speed limit, and don't drink and drive.

RETURNING HOME

For some diseases symptoms only appear after visitors arrive home. If this happens seek immediate healthcare assistance and advise your doctor about your trip. This information may assist in diagnosis.

ENTRY OF MEDICATION INTO BRAZIL

If you need to bring medication into Brazil, don't forget to bring your prescription and keep your medication with you throughout your trip, keeping the original packaging to make identification easier. Remember that any medication entering the country is subject to sanitary inspection.

BUYING MEDICATION IN BRAZIL

As required by the Ministry of Health, some medication, such as antibiotics, tranquilizers and psychotropic drugs, can only be purchased with a prescription. These products are labeled with a red or black band on their packaging and can only be used under a doctor's instruction.

NOTES:

Traffic Behavior

Information for foreigners

Drive with care to ensure you get the most out of your trip.

Mandatory documents to drive in the country:

- driver's license;
- vehicle documents;
- mandatory car insurance;
- carta verde – mandatory insurance for cars traveling in the Mercosur countries

Mandatory safety equipment for vehicles:

- fire extinguisher;
- spare tire;
- headlights;
- external mirrors;
- windscreen wipers;
- hydraulic jack;
- Tire iron;
- screwdriver;

What to do in the case of fines:

In order to leave the country you have to pay any traffic fines obtained in Brazil. No vehicle may leave Brazil with outstanding fines, otherwise your vehicle can be towed at the border.

To check whether you have any outstanding fines visit www.detran.rs.gov.br The website will give you information on how to proceed in this and other situations.

If you drink, don't drive.

Brazilian law has a zero tolerance policy for alcohol consumption by drivers of vehicles. Drivers whose blood shows the presence of any level of alcohol will suffer the following consequences:

- fine of R$ 1,915.30;
- vehicle seizure;
- reported to police authorities for a traffic violation.

Safety belts for everyone.

The use of safety belts is mandatory for all vehicle occupants, including those travelling on the back seat.

Transporting children in the back seat.

Children under the age of 10 must travel in the back seat with the following safety devices and the safety belts duly adjusted:

- 0 – 1 years: baby car seat;
- 1 – 4 years: children's car seat;
- 4 – 7 and a half years: booster seat.

Respect the speed limit

80km/h is the speed limit on most Brazilian highways; however, there are sections with a 60km/h or even 40km/h limit due to urban settlements. Pay close attention to signs indicating the speed limit. In Brazil speed is controlled by speed cameras on most highways and in cities.

Know when to overtake.

Overtaking is not allowed over solid lines. Overtaking on the hard shoulder is expressly forbidden.
